Rem Collection

design Paolo Vernier — 2025

Between structure and material

Designed by Paolo Vernier, the Rem collection explores the perfect balance between structure and material. Thin, squared lines define an essential chair, where leather wraps around the metal seat thanks to an elegant interplay of straps, creating a visual and tactile contrast of great appeal.

In the armchair version, the armrest integrates decisively into the structure's geometry, while the entire collection – comprising chair, armchair, and stool – stands out for its lightness and minimal footprint.

The assembly system allows the materials to be easily separated, enhancing practicality and durability. Ideal for residential and contract spaces with a bold character, Rem is a presence destined to make an impression.
